Rod grew up in Mosman Sydney and later qualified as an expert fitter and machinist in the mass production of fasteners, in the manufacture of intricate mining gearboxes and the precise requirements of the aircraft manufacturing industry. Later he worked with these skills locally in Cooma with Crowe Engineering.

Today Rod is employed as manager of the Cooma Salvation Army Family Store and he has a real sense of Christian ministry in that role. He has much to say; a big turn in his life took place when he "met the Lord", he says, that explains him now.
