Well known identity, Tom, uses the catch-phrase "bringing people and property together" and he has been doing this most effectively in Cooma and district for many years.

Tom has an interesting story to tell not only of his own experiences in childhood, but how he came to be born in India. Soon after this his parents moved back to United Kingdom. His father had a medical practice in Cardiff, Wales, when World War II broke out and this area also came under heavy enemy bombing raids.

With qualifications behind him he heard the call to defend his country and joined coastal command. How he came to Cooma remains to be said. Two world leaders today inspire him to give much hope for good in this troubled world. Come and enjoy good company over Breakfast.
