Life in Cooma has been made more special because of the support given to children who reveal that they have special needs as they develop. How very rewarding it is to see these young lives begin to flourish in society.

The name “Early Intervention” suggests just one support available to give parents extra strength to meet the challenges needed of child nurture. Lives are enriched.

Who better than Rob and Cheryl to reveal the strength of character needed to address early signs of Autism in their second son. They have lived in Cooma for the past 10 years, married 23 years with two children.

Hear them; enjoy good company over a hearty Breakfast.
